Greetings

I received a great phone call last week. A very happy reader and advertiser in the Islands Marketplace was so thrilled when her friends boat sold. She had placed the ad on Craigslist, in the newspaper, on the internet and in The Islands Marketplace. Her ad ran for a few weeks and she lowered the price. Then one day she got the phone call she was waiting for. Someone on Denman Island found an older copy of our magazine and saw just what she was looking for in the Boats and Marine section. She phone our classified ad listing on Salt Spring Island and they made a deal! It was such good news to hear that people are connecting and lives are being changed by the free advertising system. Place your ad and see how it works for you!

In this issue I am pleased to present a new column entitled "Twist and Shout" by Salt Spring writer Maureen Phelan. You can view more of her work at the upcoming show at ArtSpring this March 16 to 25th.

Last weekend I had the privilege to go to the Opening Night of the "Our Island, Our World" Film Festival and was surprised to see such a large turnout and such a well-organized event. Congratulations to Carol and Dick Grier and their volunteers and supporters for all the hard work and accomplishments they have achieved in presenting this wonderful opportunity to our community. To follow up with the festivities we have listed the Top Ten results of the audience's choice for films on page 14 of this issue. Here are the raffle winners and GIFTS scholarship winners:

Jean Gelwicks - Fritz cinema tickets package

Nelly Weibel - Fritz cinema tickets package

Alia Gunnlaugson - Fritz cinema tickets package

Emily McPhee - Barb's Buns Gift Certificate and gift basket

Ruby Egger-Lipsett - Natureworks Gift Certificate

Ruby Egger-Lipsett - Intelli mouse

Waterfall - 'From the Good Earth' Book by Michael Ableman

Audrey Wild - 'Fields of Plenty' Book by Michael Ableman

Tom Wright - Hastings House Dinner for two.

The Gulf Islands Film and Television School scholarships were won by Emily McPhee (youth) and Ahava Shira (adult).

In this issue we have many new (and regular) business advertisers who are helping to keep the Islands Marketplace going strong with their paid advertising. Please take the time to drop in and visit them and tell them you saw their ad here. It is the best way to support our local economy and let them know you appreciate the free advertising services of The Islands Marketplace.

Thanks again... until next issue, enjoy. – Sandi Poystila

Through A Glass Darkly - Interpretations through words and images

Nine Salt Spring photographers and twelve writers will confront nothing less than the biblical metaphor for the human condition, in a show called Through a Glass Darkly. It opens at Artspring at 6PM on March 16 and runs to March 25.

The idea is drawn from the verse, "For now we see through a glass, darkly, but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known." For scholars, that is First Corinthians 13:12. "Glass" presumably means "mirror". The verse is about the idea of the imperfection of human perception, and dangles the further metaphor of reversal of perception in the mirror. It was anticipated by Plato whose idea of human consciousness was of men tethered in a cave, seeing only the shadows of real events.

The central challenge of the show is to see if photographers and writers, working in radically different mediums can bring fresh meaning to this most ancient conundrum.

"Salt Spring professional photographers have been exhibiting their work in group shows at ArtSpring for many years," says David Borrowman, spokesman for the photographers. "When we decided that this Spring's show would be centred on a theme, it suddenly opened the possibility of putting visual art next to writing, to see the similarities and differences of the two media."

ArtSpring Executive Director George Sipos agrees: "Writing and photography seem at first to be such different activities, and yet language itself is a lens through which we see our lives. Like the camera, it both clarifies and distorts the world. This joint exhibition will be a unique opportunity to see the two art forms side by side."

The photographers have been working since last summer to compile images that are related in one way or another to the theme from Corinthians. For the writing, a call for submissions went out to writers on Salt Spring in January. The thirty-seven entries were adjudicated by Carla Funk, the poet laureate of Victoria and creative writing professor at UVic. She chose fifteen pieces of writing from twelve authors for the show.

Photographer Alan Bibby captures a child's curious emotion in this amazing image of reflection and interpretation.

Through a Glass Darkly opens on Sunday, March 16 with at reception from 6-9pm. Several of the writers will read their work during the reception starting at 7pm. The show will be open every day till March 25, including the Easter weekend.

Twist and Shout

Ode to Ripple

By Maureen Phelan

Upon first viewing him, I heard music... O.k., so it wasn't a Bach concerto, but well, it's like this... My current list of favorite things could stretch around a city block or a down a country lane. Lemon sorbet, my grandmother "Jewels" Etheldreda O'Brien, Salt Spring Island, and anything by Samuel Beckett. However, when asked to name the top choice on that list, really the most wondrous entity on the planet, (quite frankly, he isn't even from this galaxy), I speak in hushed tones, my head bowed, about Ripple the Border collie, a dog that brings to my life such great pleasure, and a rich, golden happiness. He isn't even mine. He is my ex's ex dog and he lives in Prince Rupert for God's sake! I gave serious thought to putting together a petition, specifically a Fulford petition, to try and convince Laura (his real mother) to move the dog down to the south end, but it hasn't come to pass yet. I haven't conceded complete defeat. Of course, Saltspring needs another Border collie, like I need a quad latte... I told Dan Patterson (the ex), my theory that perhaps he was the love child we never had. Ripple had my nose and Dan's ass, my anti-social tendencies and Dan's love of food. Dan adores him nearly as much as I do. In fact, everyone that meets this dog falls deeply in love on the spot. And speaking of spots, his fur is a shiny ruffled black and white blanket, each soft ear peppered with inky polka dots. He has white eyelashes, and a tiny stubbled white beard. A lot of pink is liberally sprinkled over his body too, a splash by his nose, some by his rump and of course a pink belly covered in more of the above mentioned dots. Oh yeah, did I forget to mention that he stares out at the universe with one eye that is brown and one that is sky blue? Yikes... These eyes have produced all sorts of reactions from Laura's neighbours. Fingers have been pointed and slurs shouted out "He is a dingo!" He is the devil!" People in cars often stop and stare. Green lights are often missed.

Ripple is a complex character, a true eccentric. Diane Arbus would have snapped a photo... His character defects mirror my own and to walk with him is to witness my own "crooked self." He can be cruelly dismissive, turning his snout away from me with a insouciance that is breathtaking. He is a sneak, furtively hiding behind bushes that line the local schoolyard to gulp down forgotten rotten lunches, their greasy bags spilling out a horn of plenty. "Drop it" I command. He turns away, still swallowing and then proceeds to piss on a tree. "Chien!" All the dogs I grew up with were from more traditional bloodlines; they came with naturally coloured fur and normal dispositions. Sure they had personalities. Sure I loved them, but not like I love Ripple. He has dozens of expressions and 2 million moods. I would do anything for him. I am in the ultimate co-dependent relationship and will not be seeking out a 12-step programme anytime in the near or distant future. Why bother? I have already experienced my own spiritual awakening, and it wasn't of the garden variety, (more like I was stooped over picking his poop up in someone else's garden). How about his life "downtown?" He lolls on a lumpy bed, with all 4 legs straight up and head turned to one side, cradled by an assortment of motley throw pillows. Bones lay scattered about, half-chewed and waiting for additional punishments to be meted out by the King. No matter the crabby mood I am in pre-visit, it is instantly banished when I open the door and see him shyly approach me. He always formally bows to me in greeting, his eyes half-shut, his mouth smiling, and he makes a beeline toward me; plumed tail wagging in slow-feathered arcs. The word "walk" sends him racing around the cabin, careening off walls and sending rugs flying. Off we go to Burgoyne Bay. He sniffs every tree; he strains and pulls as we go down the road. Once in the park, SNAP! The lead is off and he bounds away from me, sweet freedom. He is 12 years old and he has been worked hard, but has the energy of a much younger dog. I bring a variety of balls and sticks, as I know that a single offering of either would offend him. We have a great time together until the other dogs appear. Dogs for him are just vehicles waiting to be vandalized. He often upgrades his toy selection by snatching a better, bigger, more expensive ball directly from the mouth of another dog as he runs by him at a hundred miles an hour. The dog barely registers that a theft has occurred. The owner does however. And there is Ripple in the midst of the pack, sucking up to all the humans while ignoring the pesky prodding's of mere dogs. He does not consider himself to be part of that motley canine crew. His is Ripple, the love of my life, my favorite thing.

This column (my first) is dedicated to my family (hard-core dog fanatics) and to the lovely, local, luscious Letitia and her dog Dancer.

Bi-weekly horoscope contributed by Patrick Arundell. Visit his website at www.patrickarundell.com for more great features... see below.

ARIES Mar 21st - Apr 20th

If you were a builder, you'd choose this week to prepare plans to build your show house. Anything that requires patience, a sure hand and common sense will come naturally to you. However, if you are more gregarious, you can surprise friends with the need to find a little more "you time". If so, don't feel guilty about this. Privacy can be essential.

TAURUS Apr 21st - May 21st

Teamwork can take you far. Even if you're a Taurus who loves doing your own thing, joining with, rather than going it alone, can be good for the soul and be fun. If you belong to clubs of any type these too can be a rewarding area. In romance, the friendship element of a current relationship can shine through, or will it be a pal's attraction for you?

GEMINI May 22nd - Jun 21st

You've needed to be more independent and someone may have found this hard to understand. This person could have a traditional mindset and believe your responsibilities should always come first. Now however, you can talk this through and find that you have more in common than you thought. Job-hunting? The signs are promising Gemini.

CANCER Jun 22nd - Jul 23rd

A super time for a vacation. Fresh air, brisk walks and extra sleep can all be perfect. If this is not on your schedule, firm up plans for later in the year. Psychologically, having something to look forwards to can give you a lift. With Mars now back in your sign, people can seem more receptive - important if you desire greater approval and respect.

LEO Jul 24th - Aug 23rd

A sultry time ensues. Seems unlikely? Where's your faith Leo? Your romantic situation can change quite radically by the months end, and this can come from your own growing ease with being close. Dialogue is important, but it is intimacy - if a situation feels right - that can help to bond you and your amour, or bring someone new to your world.

VIRGO Aug 24th - Sep 23rd

If one relationship has drained you, is it because you've been obsessing with the areas that make you different? If so, this week's healing and diplomatic moves of Mercury and Venus can see an improvement. If you shift a little and the other person does too, you can both soon close the gap. Harmony is definitely something to aspire to.

LIBRA Sep 24th - Oct 23rd

If you've been enjoying yourself, it's time to get your mindset back on life's nitty-gritty issues. A few early nights may neither be amiss. And the more you concentrate on the things you have been avoiding, the more the sense of satisfaction you'll develop. If you work behind the scenes, great strides can be made - even if this is not commented upon.

SCORPIO Oct 24th - Nov 22nd

Both short and long term hopes start to shape up positively. Travel plans can be finalised, but also you can feel a good deal more sociable. If you've been waiting for the right moment to let someone know that you're attracted to them, you'll have the added confidence and charisma to do so now. Your sense of humour can help to beguile them.

SAGITTARIUS Nov 23rd - Dec 21st

As happy in your home as you could be? Even if your abode is comfortable, you can be minded to play host. Yet if you have been thinking of a new decorative scheme, now you can find the spark to do something about it. Family relationships can also benefit from a more nurturing vibe. Old memories can be happily shared between you and loved ones.

CAPRICORN Dec 22nd - Jan 20th

Your ruler Saturn forges a link to the go-getting Mars and on this occasion, the union can be productive. If you need to get an expert opinion, this guidance can prove invaluable. The pace of life can also zip along this week and there can be lots of happy chatter to enjoy. Take on mental challenges and quizzes - you can truly shine.

AQUARIUS Jan 21st - Feb 19th

Attention to detail can have positive implications. Your ideas have been farsighted, but it's how you apply them that counts from now, and if you're thorough, your finances particularly, can start to pick-up. Indeed before March comes to a close, there can be a pure piece of luck. Even if you're not fatalistic, a turning point can be reached.

PISCES Feb 20th - Mar 20th

Astrology is like the seasons. Everything goes in cycles and this week can be an encouraging time. The self-doubts, anxieties and hidden issues that have plagued you can now melt away. Expect your popularity to pick-up too Pisces. A new Spring romance can soon be in the air or a tie that has bumped along the bottom can begin to revive.
