Happy Halloween!!

You've just picked up a really good issue of the very popular Islands Marketplace Magazine, which is the Gulf Islands only free buy and sell magazine. Lots of great deals to be found on the following pages, along with some good stories and special features.

Last issue we introduced The All New Movie Trivia Contest sponsored by the Fritz Cinema. It must have been a very hard question, as no one sent in their answers and the two movie passes went unclaimed. Check out page 7 for your chance to win free passes, when you answer the movie trivia question. Just email us your answer and your name could be drawn to win.

Another great contest in this issue is our first ever Halloween Photo contest. Lots of great prizes to be won from four great Saltspring Island businesses, including music lessons from Acoustic Planet Music, Gift Certificate from Island Star Video and prizes from Apple Photo and West of the Moon Toys. Make sure you bring your camera with you on All Hallow's Eve and get clickin' to Win!! Deadline to email your jpeg photos to us is Monday, November 3 at 12 noon. Check out the very fun Halloween Hangman Game on our website at: www.islandsmarketplace.com

We also have some excellent household tips and tricks from Georgiana Reehl of Maids Personally. Each issue Georgiana will be offering great advice to our readers to make household management easier. If you have a question about cooking or cleaning that you'd like answered, just send us an email and we will ask Georgiana to provide an answer.

The Islands Marketplace welcomes our new contributing writer, Sheri Cyprus, who has sent us a Halloween themed fictional story called "Hollow Moon". Watch for more of Sheri's stories in upcoming issues.

Remember when the personal computer was introduced in the 80's and it was said that the computer would reduce paperwork and save us time? If that is true, how come I spend almost 50% of my time in front of my sweet Mac and my desk is completely cluttered with paper? I don't think it has saved us time or paper, and now we are buying more paper to print on, and spending more time online. I have always secretly fought with the fact that the printing industry, which I've been involved in for almost 20 years, contributes to the destruction of trees. I don't think computers will end the printing of magazines or newspapers - but The Islands Marketplace is pleased to offering you the choice of reading online or in print. Visit our website at: www.islandsmarketplace.com to read our current and back issues online or email us at: info@islandsmarketplace.com to get on our email subscription list and we will email our current issue link to you every Friday publish date.

Enjoy this issue and have a Safe and Happy Halloween – Sandi Poystila

Dharm Atma Kundalini Yoga New to Salt Spring South End

SALT SPRING ISLAND (October 6, 2008) — Shannon Cowan now offers Kundalini Yoga training at 2172 Fulford-Ganges Road in the Qi Gong classroom on Tuesday evenings and Wednesday mornings for those seeking to enhance their physical and mental vitality.

Regular adult classes are held Tuesdays 5:30-7 pm and Wednesdays 8:00-9:30 am. Meditation Class Tuesday 7:30-8:30 pm (by donation). Parent & Child (0 to 3 yrs) Wednesdays 10:00-11:30 am. Drop-Ins are $15.00, ten classes for $125.00 (a 2-class savings). Call Shannon: 250-653-4663. www.ecoreality.org/wiki/Dharm\_atma\_yoga.

Shannon Cowan, yoga teacher & founding member of EcoReality.

Cowan offers a unique service to the community of parents with young children – her Wednesday 10 am class is open to parents and their children from birth to 3 yrs of age. Cowan uses a dynamic class format to guide adult yoga and at the same time invite children to be in that space. It is workable with babes-in-arms, running toddlers or anywhere in-between! Cowan incorporates group sharing about parenthood, dancing with the children and children-oriented yoga poses into these classes.

“I have missed the personal practice of yoga since becoming a new dad and running my own business. Thanks to Shannon’s classes, I get to spend quality time with my son, with other parents and children, and also to experience the benefits of Kundalini yoga,” says Photographer Shel Neufeld.

Dharm Atma means “soul on a path of right action” and is the spiritual name of Shannon Cowan. Cowan is a K.R.I. certified Kundalini Yoga Teacher and member of the Canadian Yoga Alliance, with 9 years teaching experience in Ottawa and Vancouver. Cowan embraces the Kundalini Yoga teachings as a means to empower people to take responsibility for their personal health, community health and health of their environment.

“I have seen people from all walks of life benefiting from the practice of Kundalini yoga. It has the capacity to awaken each of us to our personal potential as part of a greater Whole, or simply to enjoy life more fully!”

Cowan has been visiting Salt Spring monthly with her family for two-and-a-half years as a founding member of EcoReality Co-Operative (www.ecoreality.org) and part of Island Natural Growers. Cowan moved to Salt Spring full time and opened her Kundalini Yoga practice at EcoReality as a service to Islanders in September, 2008. Shannon is a teacher in other areas of integrated ecology and health, such as online courses in Agroecology at UBC and UBC Sustainable Agriculture Internships on Salt Spring farms.

Kundalini Yoga utilizes breath, posture, sound and meditation for strength and relaxation. It’s philosophy mirrors some of the values of EcoReality, such as “Right Livelihood” – thinking and acting in relationship to efficiently produce food and health for present and future generations.

At Fat Sam's Grand Slam Everyone is Dead!

Flying Dreams Aerial Arts Productions will launch the wildly colorful nouveau cirque production Speakeasy, on Halloween, a perfect launching pad for this darkly comic story set in an astral Hootch Hall and peopled by a weird & whacky collection of "life's little losers", all buried on Boot Hill, Chicago, 1929.

Sequined and feathered chorus girls and gun-toting gangsters set the scene of a jazzy underworld, while the spectacular aerial acrobatics of the Flying Dreams troupe include aerial hoops, spinning trapeze, spanish web, a triple trapeze act, and a fiery production number with six aerial acrobats performing breathtaking drops and dives on red aerial silks suspended from 30 feet above the stage.

A gang of killer floozies — played by the high-flying circus acrobats — meet their nemesis in the crude, brutish gangster, Diamond Dick, played by Anthony Ulc. Ulc is an accomplished actor in theatre, film, and television, including series such as McGyver, Sentinel, Outer Limits, and Stargate.

The cast of 20 local Salt Spring Island actors, dancers, singers, and aerial artists include Victoria Mihalyi, artistic director of Flying Dreams, and the creator of Speakeasy. Mihalyi, who wrote and choreographed the show, is working in a directorial collaboration with two other women director/choreographers, Sue Newman and Andrea Rabinovitch. Newman is also singing and dancing in the show as well as contributing ground choreography.

In addition to Mihalyi, lead aerial artists include Oria Atkinson, Natasha Danchenko, Kathleen Donovan, Kristin Tuttle, and Kyla Tuttle,

Howard Kliaman, an opera singer with the Victoria Opera Company, plays the role of Fat Sam, and the multi-talented actor/aerialist Bryan Jamieson plays the Purple Angel, a cranky celestial being whose patience is sorely tried by the slaphappy lost souls he is charged with guiding.

Earlier shows by the Flying Dreams troupe (www.flyingdreams.ca) have all sold out virtually overnight. Speakeasy opens on Halloween, Friday, October 31st and runs for five shows only, until Saturday, November 8th. Tickets are available at the ArtSpring Ticket Centre on Salt Spring Island, 250.537.2102. Flying Dreams is located at "The Temple", 112 Sun Eagle Drive.

Speakeasy is a fundraiser for the Aerial Arts Theatre Society. Contact: Victoria Mihalyi at 250.537.4840 or email: flyingdreams@telus.net

Hollow Moon

"There are nights when the wolves are silent and only the moon howls." George Carlin

Halloween Fiction by Sheri Cyprus

The late comedian George Carlin said "There are nights when the wolves are silent and only the moon howls." Not too many people would take that seriously, but around here, they do... This is a small, isolated island town that nobody pays much attention to, but people here like the peace and quiet. Some adventurous types even like it enough to keep their real estate bargain homes and put up with one night a year of hell.

What kind of hell? Well, for one thing, during that one night, overgrown bees attack in huge swarms in October in the pitch blackness. Venomous spiders the size of watering cans lurk, waiting for anyone or anything foolish enough to cross their path. And much larger creatures are also out there, watching and waiting... Someone always disappears or dies from a freak accident like ... Well, I can't say anything more about that.

I'm afraid I can't tell you the details. I mean, I'm literally afraid to tell you. Who am I? Just think of me as "Maria" if you even want to think of me at all. This story isn't about me. I need to get this off my mind... I've spent years processing what I've learned and I can't tell anyone with any authority like the police. I've seen too many of my neighbours die... The thing that everyone here knows by now is that if you stay inside on that one night a year, and never try and report anything, you'll be okay.

Knowing which night the freakishly-terrifying weirdness will hit though is tricky, but it's definitely not rocket science. It's always in October, but, so far anyway, never on the actual Halloween, or All Hallows' Eve – ironically enough. There are signals to watch for though. The October wind vanishes and a vapour-mist with a sort of faint, mouldy odour replaces it. The ends of tree branches become pointed as they snarl and twist into the night sky. The wildlife-filled canyons get strangely hushed.

The rows of cars on the streets shouldn't be there – not that many. There are more cars than there are people on the island – more cars than there would be if a fleet of ferries came in. But the cars are endless on that night. The constant roaring hum of the traffic can almost be heard over the incredible shrieking of the sky – of our world right then.

The night screams. The moon is full, but appears broken in the sky. Two rounded, lunar pieces float in the black mist like tapered, evil eyes. You have to get home or the fear alone may kill you! Someone drives up near you on a bicycle as quiet as death. The adrenaline hits your nervous system and the hit is electrical but also emotional. Blame it on the moon...

There are those that think the moon is as hollow as a pumpkin on Halloween. Some are even convinced that aliens live inside the moon's hollows. Did you ever hear of The Hollow Moon Theory? Well, yes there is one. Apparently, Apollo 12 and 13 found out that the moon is so hollow it rings or reverberates, or whatever you call it, like a bell. Carl Sagan says a hollow object in space isn't natural, but of course, other scientists disagree.

No one has the answers, just the theories. Some people say the earth rings too. Whatever... I'm no scientist. The most interesting thing I ever read about it was that some Apollo astronaut reported seeing what he said looked like some sort of alien space craft and then NASA decided to scramble all his further messages...

So, aliens are living in the hollows of the moon? Who knows?

Ask Georgiana

In each issue Georgiana will answer your household questions on Cooking & Cleaning

A survey in England found that the average housewife spends six years of their lives cleaning house.

Six Years!! And a study for Reuters News Service calculated that a stay at home mother/housewife would earn $134,121 a year if paid for all her work. We all know how monotonous and endless housework is. I think we all could use a little ingenuity, innovation and efficiency to make that boring job a little easier and more enjoyable. I hope my hints and tips will make all that hard work at home a little more pleasant for you.

HOUSEHOLD TIPS:

CRANBERRY SAUCE

Ever have a jolly old time getting that cranberry jelly out of the can? Before opening the can, just puncture one side to allow air to enter, and then open the other side. Tip the can over to allow the cranberry to slide right out. Slice and serve that holiday cranberry jelly with a sprig of sage or parsley.

PUMPKIN SEEDS

This time of year we all have pumpkin seeds from those jack-o-lanterns and pies to deal with. Instead of tossing them in the garbage, why not make good use of them? Take the seeds out of the pot and wash them. Place them on a tray and roast them in the oven for an hour or two at 175-200 degrees. Watch them so they don't turn brown or they will taste burnt.

They are tasty in salads or as snacks. They are high in amino acids, iron and zinc.

ARIES Mar 21st - Apr 20th

You're the zodiac's buccaneer. This can make you dashing, but sometimes rash. Yet getting closer in touch with your instincts can become something of a clarion call now, as the Sun moves into the perceptive zone of your chart. Don't scorn any hunches you have, listen to them. Something substantial can shape up from this - something that can last.

TAURUS Apr 21st - May 21st

Put the feelers out. The more insights you can gain the better. These can help you to understand how others are thinking, where a market is heading or whether someone is interested in you from a romantic perspective! In fact, relating well with others can see you connecting better. This improvement in communication can be sweet, and increase harmony.

GEMINI May 22nd - Jun 21st

Does your love of variety sometimes see you as a jack of all trades and a master of none Gemini? If so, this is an excellent juncture to decide on what you do best and to focus intently on it. If you bring order to any department of your life, you won't regret it and it can see you extract more end results from your unquestionable talents. Over to you!

CANCER Jun 22nd - Jul 23rd

You've become more conscious of choosing your words carefully. Or, if you've yet to grasp this particular nettle, this can be the week to do so. Thoughtful communication can take you far. Equally, there can be some lighter moments, a time when you can illuminate any occasion with the most dazzling side of your being. You're on form and all will know!

LEO Jul 24th - Aug 23rd

It's not how much you have but how much you appreciate it. It's not how big your house is, but the atmosphere within it. And it's not how many friends you have but the quality of your inner circle. Think in terms of these themes this week because your peace of mind will come from knowing, what and who is of true value. Security and serenity can follow.

VIRGO Aug 24th - Sep 23rd

Some can see you as someone with a preoccupation for minutiae. Of course exactly what engages you is unique to you and every other Virgo. But even if something seems to upset your equilibrium this week, before you express your thoughts to the person you feel has erred, ask yourself this question, will this cast you in a rather hypercritical light?

LIBRA Sep 24th - Oct 23rd

Finances can be rejuvenated and even if you have had to take on a new realism around your expenditure in recent times, you can increasingly gain your satisfaction less from possessions and more from exploring intangible qualities. However, it's a rare Libra that does not appreciate creature comforts, so there can be some treats along the way.

SCORPIO Oct 24th - Nov 22nd

Are you in a bit of a rut? You may not appreciate the thought, but if there is a hint of truth in this, this would be a marvellous time to start afresh, and do you know, it really doesn't matter in which area of life you apply this to. And your imaginative way of looking at things can bring you unexpected bonuses. The more surprising these are, the better!

SAGITTARIUS Nov 23rd - Dec 21st

Venus is adding to your self-confidence - even if you have a nagging feeling that someone may be withholding from you, perhaps because they're envious. Yet if you do have areas of life where you're less than assured, don't dismiss them out of hand, as you sometimes have a tendency to do. Instead confront them in the way you often urge others to do.

CAPRICORN Dec 22nd - Jan 20th

Your ruling planet is the often maligned Saturn. Yet without its sensible tones, very little of substance would be achieved. True, it can be harsh, but it drives us to be disciplined. And so it is this week. It's asking you to balance the go-getting energies of Mars and Jupiter with a sense of responsibility. Don't be rash, but you can be hopeful Capricorn.

AQUARIUS Jan 21st - Feb 19th

You can have an ambivalent attitude to authority figures, yet ironically you often make a skilled boss yourself because of your knowledge of human nature and democratic approach. These qualities can stand you in good stead now when someone can ask you to take on a more responsible role. Your networking skills can also see you charm opposition.

PISCES Feb 20th - Mar 20th

You can find yourself becoming more curious. If you have had a particular fondness for an overseas location, it's possible that you'll explore new options for next year's vacation. If you've never been skiing, this winter can find you open to try. Then again, you can find yourself enjoying history, be it uncovering things in your locality or your family background.
