Halloween is tomorrow and there is so much going on for the kids and adults who enjoy the pagan festival. In this issue Georgiana Reehl and Tracey Supina have both offered some fun and freaky facts on Halloween.

But not to be forgotten is the upcoming Remembrance Day Ceremonies on November 11. While I don't know of anyone who agrees with war, it is important that we remember those who suffered on our behalf. Whether it is right or wrong, fighting for the freedom of our country, our loved ones and generations to come is a noble feat.

You can see it in the eyes of our courageous veterans as they stand at attention in the rain and wind, (and sometimes sun) at every Remembrance Day ceremony. Once vibrant, energetic young men, so full of life and vigor, most of them volunteered to do what they felt was right in their hearts. Most of them paid a dear sacrifice, whether with their lives, or their physical or mental health, they paid. You can see it in their eyes.

The suffering and anguish that they may have endured is something that is hard to think of and heartbreaking to consider, but we must remember.

It may seem like many of our vets are passing away and it seems like there will be less medals to admire, less stories of bravery to hear and less soldiers to stand for on November 11, but this is not true.

Watch the news and you will hear about the soldiers that are losing the battle in Afghanistan. There will be more lives lost, more soldiers to be proud of and more reason to stand in silence. While we do not agree with war, we must stand together and agree with peace.

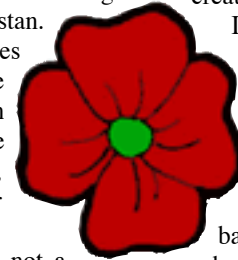

Remembrance Day is not a celebration, it is a ceremony.

Our soldiers felt it was their duty to fight for their country, and it is our duty to stand with and for them on November 11th. To honour them and let them know that we are thankful and sorry for the anguish they endured. That we will never forgot that they gave their lives so we could live in freedom, in a wonderful, strong and free country, that they had every part in creating.

It is a small sacrifice for us to pay, to get out of our warm beds, to drive into town and fight for a parking spot, to stand in the rain (or sun, if we're lucky), to hear the pipe band, to watch the wreaths being laid, to remember all who lived and lost. But we do it because we are free and proud Canadians, all because of them. It is our duty and honour to respect them and to always think about how our lives could have been without their unselfish sacrifice.

What's with The Code??

The numbers at the end of every classified ad in The Islands Marketplace is a date stamp showing when the last issue is that the ad will be printed. For example: 10-30 means that the ad will not run after Oct. 30 (this issue). Each ad is usually placed for four issues, or until someone asks us to take it out. Most NEW ads in this issue have the code 12-11 (Dec. 11 is the last issue that the ad will run.)

Advice, recipes and stories by Georgiana Reehl

Happy Halloween Everyone!!

There was one Halloween I remember - in Britain, I didn't have anything to wear; I had a tight budget.

Well! I moseyed of to a second hand store and purchased a longish black skirt, just a little past my knobbly knees, got myself a black polo neck sweater and a pair of black panty hose. Then off to a stationary store and purchased a sheet of black cardboard paper and some silver sparkles' - all items tallied up to about 20quid. Once home - I placed the cardboard sheet on a table, drew a round circle and cut one half to the middle forming a radius, then proceeded to fold the circle into a cone shape, placed it on my noggin to make sure it fit snugly, held it firmly so that it didn't unravel and stapled it. The left over sheet was made into a brim for my cone shape hat. I had some white chalk which I used to draw a moon and some stars, well now! for the fun part, I put clear nail polish here and there and sprinkled the sparkles' on it before the nail polish dried up. I then made two holes on both sides of the hat and placed a string through it with a knot on each end and tied beneath my chin enabling the hat to stay on my head. Core blimey, my witches' hat was a master piece, I was just sixteen - I took my black skirt in hand and shredded the skirt from hem up, stopping just beneath my bummy, then rummaged into my closet for some comfortable back walking shoes. I was all set for the Halloween feaster.....

So you don't have to spend oodles' of money and what excitement for the youngens, and a great way to entertain themselves creating their own hats!

Halloween is an ancient holiday that began as a Celtic festival celebrating the end of the harvest season in the Gaelic culture. In those days the boundaries between the worlds of the dead and the living merged, the dead come alive and cause chaos and damage in the living world. In Mexico, Latin America and Spain Halloween is known as All Souls Day. In the Catholic Church it has origins as All Hallows Eve. It is a night of mischief, bonfires, witches, ghosts and goblins. People have celebrated it, and trick or treating youngsters today carry on the ancient custom of dressing up to scare away demons and ghosts of the past. It no longer evokes terror and fear, and is now an evening of masquerade, fun and goodies. This has been going on for almost 2000 years.

Here is recipe for making candy out of all those pumpkins. Oh! Incidentally - If you have some pumpkins in your garden and want them to last longer - try placing straw underneath them so they won't touch the earth and helps to prevent slugs and garden critters from ruining them.

Did you know that the ancient tradition of witches comes from Saxon traditions? The Saxon word "wica" means wise one and the idea of flying through the air evolved from their rubbing a sacred ointment on their skin which gave them a feeling of flying, especially if they had been fasting. Some "wicacs" rode on horseback, but poorer witches had to go on foot and carried brooms and sticks to help jumping over creeks and streams. Hence the idea of flying witches with brooms.

Pumpkin Candy Recipe

This scrumptious candy is from fresh pumpkin and maple sugar. It will take about 20 minutes to prepare, and around half an hour to cook. Enjoy!

1 quart pumpkin meat; fresh cut into 1-by-1-1/2-inch pieces

2-1/2 cups water

1 cup brown or maple sugar

1 cup granulated maple or raw sugar

A pinch of ground, cinnamon and cloves (can substitute with ground all-spice)

Place the cubed pumpkin in a saucepan; add the water 2 to 2-1/2 cups making sure the cubes are submerged. Bring it to a boil, then turn down the heat and let it simmer for about 15 to 20 minutes, around 15 minutes check the pumpkin to see if it is just tender.... Remove the pumpkin with a spoon that has holes in it making sure the water stays in the pan. There should be about 1-1/2 cups of liquid remaining.

Add the sugar, (brown sugar can be substituted for maple) and the spices - stir and let dissolve over low heat. Place the pumpkin pieces back in the pan and bring slowly back to a boil, then lower the heat and simmer for another 15 minutes. Let the pumpkin pieces stand in the syrup overnight.

The day after - boil the mixture for another 3 - 5 minutes. Remove the pumpkin pieces from the syrup and spread them out on a wire rack so the pieces are not touching one another. Let them stand in a warm place or in a 140-degree oven for 3 to 4 hours to dry. Roll each piece in the maple or raw sugar, and store them in a dry, cool place. Try not to stack or crowd. Yield: 2 pounds

This is what I was thinking.....

By Tracey Supina

Hauntings at the Harbour House Hotel

Whenever someone asks “hey tell me a ghost story” we all can conjure up a spooky tale or two. The urban legends that had us all huddled under a blanket by the fire pit, on a campsite, beach or back yard camp out.

I will tell you a tale that has been told many times, some of it true and some of it fiction, over time as anyone could guess the story gets changed a bit. I will however pull some actual facts of The Harbour House Haunting. This story, and the haunting began in 1973 with the murder of the owner of the Harbour House Walter Herzog. He purchased the land in 1971 from what old timers say around here he had a vision. In the fall of 1972 it burned to the ground. This should have stopped anyone but Walter determined to have his renowned resort by the water, he rebuilt it up again in September 1973. He was getting ready for the grand opening celebration then FATE had taken its victim. He was found early in the morning in his private suite shot.

The story goes in so many directions from here as to who it was that shot him, some say just a burglar, some say disgruntled staff member, others have told me it was a silent partner.

Since that day in September 1973 most who have worked there could recall a chilling event, the people who have stayed there have heard unexplainable noises. It seems more than not it is the bands who would stay there. They would hear whispering, muffled noise, heavy objects being dragged across the floor. The band room was directly below Walter’s private suite. Some of the return bands would opt to sleep somewhere else, after a night of playing at the haunted hotel.

I myself have had a few eerie events happen when I worked there many years ago. I worked in the dining room back in 1992 mostly nights. If any remember the bar being in the middle of the room, I would be pouring wine, making drinks, I always wore my hair up and all of a sudden a whoosh of air across the back of my neck, I always turned around to see who was there, and never was there anyone. I felt the cool breeze a lot, blowing my hair, the feel of someone right behind me more times than not. There were a few times I would say “I am backing up, out of the way” with my hands full of plates just to find noone there. I remember checking the bathrooms at closing time both the toilets flushed and noone there to flush them. I got use to the almost faint touch on my shoulder and would gently say excuse me Walter or most of us would say as we walked into our shift “good day Walter, we are going to have a busy night” We all treated our ghost as a welcomed friend. It did give us some comfort believe it or not when he was around. So next time a eerie, somewhat unexplained confrontation with a ghost happens I would just say hello, and welcome.

I love this time of year and get quite charged with the energy of everyone dressing up, the kids with smiles from ear to ear and the adults all dressed up for their own Halloween party night. Cheers everyone and happy Halloween.....whooooooooooooooooo !!!

Bi-weekly horoscope contributed by Patrick Arundell. Visit his website at www.patrickarundell.com for more great features... see below.

ARIES Mar 21st - Apr 20th

A little bit of bluster can probably be a good thing from time to time. After all, we come up against people keen to hustle us! Yet even if you are someone who tends to be brusque and no-nonsense in your approach, this week you can be even more direct. If you are, it could set up some confrontations and especially between the generations.

TAURUS Apr 21st - May 21st

There can be a lot of conversation going on this week. Some of it you will be at the heart of, whereas others, you may be intently listening in, or may be asked to adjudicate on two friends who are squabbling. Trying to find a sense of balance in your relationships or of fairness, are the central themes. If you can be diplomatic Taurus, it will help no end.

GEMINI May 22nd - Jun 21st

Some people will read a book slowly, picking over every word, whilst others are avid page turners and keen to race to the end. In all ways, it's about how we assimilate information. Bear this in mind now. For you can find yourself too easily focusing on how the story is written, rather than the story line itself. Keeping a grip on the big picture is essential.

CANCER Jun 22nd - Jul 23rd

If you are footloose and fancy free life can indeed seem full of upbeat and buzzy fun. However, lurking under this is a very tricky and potent Saturn/Pluto link which can suck you into a whirlpool of relationship and family complications - if you are not too careful. In an on-going tie, some kind of crunch point may be reached. Look beneath the froth Cancer.

LEO Jul 24th - Aug 23rd

Mars is going to be like a breath of fresh air in your sign, one which blows through your situation right up until the middle of next year. But... just occasionally it will blow up a storm, and this week it tangles directly with Mercury and closely with the Sun. Around all practicalities, be sensitive to those around you. You may easily be subjective, triggering tensions.

VIRGO Aug 24th - Sep 23rd

Someone who is used to getting their own way may need challenging. Say what you mean, and mean what you say, but as you have a crisp way of looking at life, and sometimes to them, it may seem that this is rather too sharp edged. If you're too quick to blurt out your take, you may end up regretting it - or find, that they'll respond in kind.

LIBRA Sep 24th - Oct 23rd

Finances can show signs of improvement. But try not to be slapdash. You love a bit of luxury and the minute you feel flush enough to spend out, you need to ensure that you have really got enough to spend on non-essentials. With Saturn also joining your sign, and squaring with Pluto, big changes beckon in the next five months in emotional ties.

SCORPIO Oct 24th - Nov 22nd

The Sun and Mercury are giving you a lot of get up and go, but if you're too direct it can prove to be self defeating. The Full Moon can see someone put out by your new found vigour. The problem is Scorpio that any opposition to your plans or you personally, isn't necessarily going to be shown in an upfront and open way. Keep your eyes peeled.

SAGITTARIUS Nov 23rd - Dec 21st

However much you have been absolutely certain that you are on the right track, some aspirations that you have striven years for, can start to lose their sparkle. If this does happen, you may need to go through a period of transition before you are certain of what to do next. If so, don't be too hard on yourself. In time, things will work out for the best.

CAPRICORN Dec 22nd - Jan 20th

You can get caught this week. Part of you may be happy to pursue a sociable strand, but there can be very real opportunities to get ahead, which you can seize, but it will require your considerable powers of concentration and this can see your time and focus compromised. What can be said is that there will be times to relax further into the future.

AQUARIUS Jan 21st - Feb 19th

You can be gregarious and friendly, but there can also be a side of you that prefers some moments alone from time to time. And this can be a week when you get pulled into the limelight, just at a moment, when you can feel really delicate. Have the faith that events are taking you in the direction you need. You just can't fully control your environment.

PISCES Feb 20th - Mar 20th

All connections are based on mutual benefits. If there are imbalances, they may come up from now. So, if anyone is possessive of your time and space, you could start to resent it. Then again, you too need to understand that your friends are free to pursue other avenues. No-one owns anyone. Yet if things need discussing, do so with a light touch Pisces.

Homeopathy talks upcoming "Self Care for colds and flu" series

An opportunity to learn 'how-to respond' in cold and flu season...

The transition from warm weather to cool is often when people become susceptible to illness and is an excellent time to take stock and prepare for a healthy winter. In response, Homeopaths at the Arbutus Therapy Centre are offering talks on 'Self Care for Colds and Flu' over the next couple of months.

A major focus of the talk will be prevention and will address preventative strategies that include nutrition, herbal and homeopathic remedies to strengthen the immune system, reduce susceptibility and encourage vibrant health. Included in the cost of the session, is a homeopathic remedy kit stocked with the most effective preventative and responsive remedies for colds and flu.

Participants will leave infused with an understanding of homeopathy as a system of natural medicine, confident on how to use the remedies and aware of community resources available in time of need. "Our intention is to help build one's confidence and capability in responding to winter ills, and the talk is appropriate for parents of children, world travelers, people who work with the public, or those with an interest in the use of non-toxic, time-tested and effective natural remedies."

The "Self Care for Colds and Flu" series is presented by local homeopaths, Karin Beviere and Tami Dos Santos at the Arbutus Therapy Centre. Daytime and evening sessions will be offered on Sunday, October 25, and Sunday November 8, at 2:00pm. Cost is $30. Please call Tami at 537-4728 ext. 1 to register.

SALTSPRING SOLILOQUIES

Jim Anderson is a writer living on Saltspring. He is working on a metamorphosis of the human mind. © 2009 by Jim Anderson, Saltspring Island

The Challenge

By Jim Anderson

Human beings do not find true and simple answers easily in this world. From the window of our rational and logical minds the world is always complex, dissonant and chaotic. We do not stumble upon the deep underlying unity, harmony and simple truth of universe haphazardly, or by chance. We always try to piece it together with the faulty machinery of our primitive minds, and never seem to get it quite right. For us, it is always buried deep, and is obscure for us. And, if we are fortunate, it only reluctantly reveals itself after relentless effort and persistence that sometimes takes a lifetime of scientific, philosophical or spiritual pursuit. That secret, simple answer of universe does not come easy, and it does not come without commitment, pain or effort.

Today, you and I live in a world where we are seemingly inundated with simple answers. Sound bites. A Reader's digest version of everything. A mass media version of life where simplistic, superficial banalities seem to be "dumbing down" an entire civilization. And we all are so busy that there seems to be no time to really examine, digest and ponder anything anymore.

Instinctively all of us know that the truth should be simple, and in difficult, fearful and insecure times we reach in desperation for that simplicity. But what we find all around us nowadays is the facile, bland and transparent simplicity of an order that is organized around materialism, consumerism and manipulation.

In a managed world of simplistic diversion, sensationalism, superficial entertainment and raw animal emotions all of us have become easier to manipulate and control, but there is something important that is slipping away here. That relentless barrage of simplistic diversion has resulted in a world where we not only no longer truly challenge the world and its power structures for serious and deep accountability, more importantly, in the confusion we have stopped seriously challenging our own lives to find the truth deep inside us,

All of us sense and know that there is a deep problem buried and a catastrophic crisis coming. All of us live in a troubled and disintegrating world and our lives are ever more difficult and harsh. There is a reckoning coming that will challenge our species and our life force to the ultimate. We must learn not only to have faith in each other, but to challenge and have faith in ourselves.

We must examine the true nature of Humankind:

Show us a faint shaft of light at the end of an infinite tunnel and we will somehow make it through into the sunlight. Give us a tattered and worn sketch of a forgotten pass through unconquered mountains and humans will make their way through somehow into the lush valleys beyond. Wave a checkered flag across impenetrable jungles and impossible vastness and we will match every insurmountable obstacle with invincible hope and indomitable will. It is the way of all life in universe. Human beings will endure.

We will find the simple truth that is buried deep, and survive this agonizing time of diversion, exploitation, superficiality and despair. We will find the belief and faith in each other and ourselves to create a new human world. It will just take time.

We must remember that we are all only the leading edge of a life force and a dream that has endured for an eternity on this planet. We are really just taking the last crucial steps into a new universe. We have been carried to that door by all those who passed into eternity before us. The torrent of their searching, dreaming, indomitable lives is why we have made it this far.

And, although we seem to be surrounded everywhere with hopeless darkness today, for all who have come before us and for all those unborn lives yet to come, you and I must find the light. We carry their dream...the human dream. We are destined for magnificence. We will find the way to a new universe and a metamorphosis of the human mind. And when we do, we will walk through that door hand in hand with them all. It is a huge challenge, but there is one thing that every human being that has ever walked this earth has learned. Nothing good and true ever comes easy.
